First Marines Back from Korea--Many Wounded, Some Gripe

FIRST MARINES RETURN FROM KOREA BATTLEFIELDS—Battle-weary U. S. Marines, the first to be returned to the United States under the new rotation plan, perk up and wave as the USS General Breckinridge docks at San Francisco. Of the 1,000-plus Korea veterans who were given a tumultuous ovation on their return, 400 were convalescent. (International Soundphoto)

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 6—(P)—Some 1,000 Marine veterans of Korea began wading ashore today through three days of red tape—all that separates them from a furlough home.

The veterans—1,167 First Division Leathernecks who came cheering through the Golden Gate yesterday—were promised they would be paid off and granted 30 day leaves by Friday, if possible. The promise came from Col. L. G. Miller, commanding officer of Marine Barracks at Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay.

The Leathernecks are veterans of the bitter, battling retreat from Changjin reservoir. Most of them were wounded, 400 convalescing. But all were walking. And all happy to be among the first returned home under the Marines' new rotation system.

They lined the rails of the transport U. S. S. Breckinridge shouting: "Have no fear, the First is here."

Wives, parents, sweethearts, wounded buddies and officials greeted them.

Mrs. G. L. Hogue of Oakland, Calif., fainted when she saw her son, Pfc. Clinton Hogue, walk down the Breckinridge's gang-plank.

A pretty young wife broke through the MP cordon holding back the civilians. She had spotted her husband. "Oh, Harry," she cried, fighting her way to his side. "You're the best fighting men in the world," Major General Graves B. Eiskine, Marine Corps commander in the Pacific, told the Leathernecks.

Navy Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz added:

"God bless you, men."

Some of the men were bitter as they recalled the months of Korean fighting.

"The chow was frozen solid," said Cpl. James Spross of Toledo, (Please turn to Page Twelve)

Ohio Red Hunt Given Approval

Budget Assailed
By Sen. Daniels

By ART PARKS
COLUMBUS, Mar. 6—(P)—The state Senate approved a move to investigate subversive activities in Ohio last night and got a spine-tingling shock an hour later when a Fourth-of-July-type torpedo exploded almost under the capitol dome.

The blast which echoed noisily through the huge rotunda appeared to be a prank. Capitol guards found the torpedo's paper wrapping, which was about two-thirds the size of a .12-gauge shotgun shell.

By comparison, the fireworks in the Senate chamber which preceded passage of the anti-subversives inquiry were quiet.

Sen. Mark McElroy (D-Cuyahoga), former member of the Army Security Intelligence Corps, argued futilely against what he called the unnecessary breadth of the resolution setting up the inquiry. (Please turn to Page Eleven)

Storekeeper Robbed With Gun He Sold

MARIETTA, Mar. 6—(P)—Clyde L. Jessers paid five dollars for a gun yesterday. It was used immediately—to hold up Jessers and relieve him of $45.

Jessers told police he bought the weapon from a man in a tavern. Jessers took the gun home and went to buy groceries. When he returned, the man from the bar showed up unexpectedly. He held up Jessers, took $45, the gun, and vanished.

Man Held in Killing Says Shot Accident

MARIETTA, Mar. 6—(P)—Mrs. Delphia Elizabeth Martin, 41-year-old divorcee and mother of five children, was shot to death last night.

A companion, Harold Hayes Rush, 23, said his .22 caliber rifle discharged accidentally.

Authorities held Rush for questioning.

The shooting took place as the couple was motoring from Lowell, where Rush lives, to Marietta, where Mrs. Martin resided.

Rush said he saw an animal moving in a field; that he took his loaded rifle from the car, and it went off. The bullet struck Mrs. Martin in the temple.

Rush took Mrs. Martin to Marietta Hospital where she died.

Czech Resistance Against Reds Growing -- Clementis Killed, Tip

NEW YORK, Mar. 6—(P)—Unconfirmed underground reports received here last night from Czechoslovakia said that former Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis had been slain trying to flee his Communist captors and that President Klement Gottwald and Premier Antonin Zapotocky were under house arrest.

The special committee of free Czech workers to factories in the Soviet Union.

The report said Foreign Trade Minister Antonin Gregor had been removed from office and arrested in the same nationwide purge of "Titoist plotters" charged with putting national interests above those of the Soviet bloc.

Recent direct official announcements in Prague have said that more than 200 persons, including top Communist officials, have been arrested in the current purge. The government said Clementis was taken in custody for plotting to bring Czechoslovakia into the western camp.

There has been recurring rumor. (Please turn to Page Twelve)

Reds Again Massing Forces As Allies Continue Offense

By DON HUTH
TOKYO, Mar. 6—(P)—Parka-clad American marines attacking over new fallen snow drove slowly ahead today in central Korea. The Chinese Reds resisted bitterly.

The Leathernecks were pushing toward the key communications hub of Hongchon, 15 miles north of recaptured Hoengsong. Some of the marine elements were 11 miles from Hongchon.

The Chinese Reds are believed to have concentrated their largest frontline forces at Hongchon. General MacArthur said another big Red force force -- the Chinese third field army -- is moving toward the front from northeast Korea to support the Communist fourth field army.

MacArthur's report was the first indication of a large shift by the third field army. He said it was comprised of several army corps, possibly up to 90,000 men.

Despite losses of an estimated 22,250 troops since the United Nations resumed its limited offensive, Feb. 21 the Chinese and North Koreans are believed to number 300,000 below parallel 38 in South Korea.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of Allied ground forces in Korea, told a news conference the Reds have plenty of men to launch a big counter-offensive.

Names Are To Be Kept Secret If Senators Get Involved in Probe of RFC Influence Loans

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6—(P)—Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC).

Senator Bennett (R-Utah), a subcommittee member, said yesterday the group had learned Senator Murray (D-Mont) wrote a letter in 1949 urging approval of a $1,000,000 RFC loan to another Miami Beach luxury hotel, the Sorrento.

The subcommittee also received testimony that:

1. White House Aide Donald Dawson has been a non-paying guest at the Saxony, an RFC borrower, on at least three occasions.

2. Hilton W. Robertson, RFC official who helped to get approval of the Saxony's $1,500,000 loan in 1949, received a rent-free two weeks' vacation at the hotel with his wife and daughter the following winter.

3. Senator Murray's son, James Murray, received $21,000 in attorney fees after the loans were made to the Saxony, Sorrento and the Maxwell Co., a firm which sold furniture to both hotels. Maxwell got RFC loans totaling $1,000,000. Robertson had a hand in approval of all three loans.

Senator Murray was not in Washington yesterday. Aides said he probably would have no comment until he had studied the testimony.

A second son, Charles, who acts as the senator's administrative assistant, told a reporter he had made numerous inquiries at the RFC about loan applications but had never "urged or pressured anyone to make loans." He said he did not recall the letter about the Sorrento loan his father was said to have written.

The subcommittee took a recess today. Tomorrow it plans to question RFC Director Walter L. Dunham in a closed-door hearing.

Record Profit Is Made by GM

Report Given Out After Prices Raised

NEW YORK, Mar. 6—(P)—General Motors Corp. made a profit in 1950 of $834,044,039, the highest in history for any corporation, the annual report to stockholders discloses.

The giant manufacturing concern, which made 45 percent of the cars and trucks produced in the United States and Canada in 1950, had record sales of $7,531,086,846.

It had payrolls of $1,809,218,043. Its 1950 taxes amounted to $1,119,000,000 -- or $2.38 for each dollar in dividends paid to stockholders and 63 cents for each dollar of payrolls.

Despite the records earnings, C. E. Wilson, president, and Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., board chairman, said 1950 net income amounted to 11.1 percent of sales compared with 11.5 percent in 1949. They attributed the decline primarily to higher taxes.

The 1950 earnings were equivalent to 1949. (Please turn to Page Eleven)

County Road Repair Is Likely To Cut Out All New Construction

Because of the unusually extensive damage to Fayette County roads as a result of the bad weather conditions of the past winter, it may be impossible for the county commissioners to plan any new road construction this year.

An appropriation for the balance of 1951 amounting to $247,899, was made by the commissioners Monday afternoon for County Engineer Wagner's department to cover expenses of all kinds.

Several thousand dollars had been appropriated earlier this year for expenses up to February.

The total amount thus earmarked for the department is slightly in excess of last year's appropriation, due to increased expenses. It is so close to the total income available for county road and highway work that there seems small chance of doing anything more than repair the many county roads which have suffered seriously in the last few months from the hardest winter in many a year.

County Engineer Wagner together with Homer Miller, Ralph Minton and Cliff Hughes, who compose the board of county commissioners, are starting on inspection trips in which Wagner will point out some of the worst spots needing road repair in the county.

Following these trips the county

The woman who lost a gaudy, tropical design scarf while uptown Monday may have it by calling at the fire department and identifying it.

Thereby hangs a little tale. The lost scarf was found hanging on the rear license plate of the fire chief's automobile, which was parked in front of the fire department.

Apparently the woman who lost the scarf had dropped it as she was passing the rear of the car, which was near the sidewalk, and it draped over the license plate.

Fire Chief Hall noticed the scarf and rescued it before it fell to the street. It awaits the owner.

The Ohio Register published in Washington C. H. on January 22, 1933—a matter of 88 years ago—carries many interesting items.

One of these is about action of the county commissioners in setting funds aside for each township to furnish relief to families of soldiers who were in the Civil War.

Funds were apportioned among the townships as follows: Union, $600; Wayne, $306; Green, $30; Jefferson, $370; Concord, $321; Madison, $155.25; Paint, $144; Marion, $153; Jasper, $292 and Perry, $128.25.

The reason for the difference in relief funds distributed among the townships was not indicated.

A committee of three was named in each township to distribute the funds as needed for relief of soldiers' families.

In the same issue of the 88-year-old paper "Wheeler and Wilson" sewing machines were advertised. One of the old timers is pictured.

Another advertisement is for the Kirk House, southwest corner of Court and Fayette streets. John B. Kirk was proprietor.

The Kirk House later became the Arlington Hotel, now the Fayette Hotel.

Trailer Dwellings To Be Taxed

Owners of trailers that are used as dwellings are going to have to pay a tax of $18 a year on them.

That is the state law, but the money goes into the county's general fund just like the taxes from any other home, County Auditor Ulric Acton said.

How many of these homes-on-wheels are there in Fayette County, its villages and Washington C. H.?

Farm Price Drop Seen in Offing

Food Cost Decline Also Is Foreseen

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6—(P)—A national farm leader said today there is a good chance that farm and food prices will decline somewhat during the months ahead.

John H. Davis, executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, said such a development is quite likely if farm production continues at current high levels.

A recent Agriculture Department report showed that farm prices reached a record level in mid-February. However, some farm products—particularly hogs and grains—have declined since that time.

Davis said much of the increase in food prices since the start of the Korean war could be attributed to "scare" buying and stockpiling by housewives, retailers and others fearing possible shortages.

In a speech prepared for a luncheon conference of agricultural writers, Davis said there is already evidence that heavier than normal buying is beginning to disappear. Storing of large quantities of meat in deep freeze and locker units, he said, has played a big role in sending live stock and meat prices to record levels.

Davis' view was given in connection with a farm-organization statement condemning suggestions that the government use subsidies (Please turn to Page Eleven)

Plane Hitch-hiker Lands in Alaska Instead of Ohio

CLEVELAND, Mar. 6—(P)—Marine Sgt. William Ellis bummed a ride on the wrong plane while on furlough and ended up at Anchorage, Alaska, instead of here.

The 30-year-old holder of the silver star started a furlough Tuesday at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

He boarded an air force bomber at March Field, Calif., after being told it was headed for Dayton, O. When it landed he found himself in Alaska.

Ellis, the former commandant of the Buckeye Detachment of the Marine Corps League, finally got home yesterday.

Army To Call 300 Medical Corps Men

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6—(P)—The army announced yesterday 300 medical and 100 dental officers of the medical service reserve will be called to duty during April.

Those being ordered to duty are men who were trained at government expense during World War II and who had less than 90 days' active military service.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—I often wonder how it would feel to be a Communist, particularly an American Communist, if the party ever took over this country. I don't see how it could be a very safe feeling.

In a country with political freedom and political parties, a man who cuts away from his party's line, whether he's a Democrat or Republican, may get defeated in the next election.

But that's the worst that can happen to him. And then he can go back to peddling bananas, running a bank or practicing law and if some of his old cronies ignore him on the street it doesn't diminish his life expectancy.

But in a Communist country the man who breaks away from the party, or disagrees with it, is in bad shape and by this time every Communist everywhere must know it. There have been examples enough.

Of course, it must be easy enough for any ardent Communist, now in good standing with the party, to stay to himself: "If the party takes over I'll get my reward: I'll have a big hand in running things."

But he forgets, as many seem to have forgotten, that maybe the time will come when he steps on a comrade's toes, or annoys the big boss, or, worse, begins having his own ideas, different from the party's current ideas.

There have been plenty of cases like this in recent years. When the party is just trying to come to power, as it is in Italy, a Communist can still break away and live to a ripe old age, provided the party never wins.

But it's a lot tougher to "deviate"—fancy word for disagreeing—once the Communist party has seized power, as it has in the countries behind the Iron Curtain.

Only last week Communists everywhere got a good insight—certainly not the first—into what happens to a gent who deviates. This was in Czechoslovakia, where Dr. Vlado Clementis fell on bad days.

Clementis, former foreign minister who vanished mysteriously from his apartment in Prague Jan. 27, was in desperate shape. An announcement said:

Clementis and four others were held on charges of spying, plotting to assassinate President Klement Gottwald, overthrow the government, restore capitalism, and turn Czechoslovakia toward the west.

Reading through the lines, it would seem Clementis had a big difference of opinion with some of his comrades. The party published a report which said:

"We shall prove that there is a place in the party only for those who in the most holy manner love the Soviet Union (substitute: follow the party line laid down by Moscow), the Communist party of Bolsheviks and Comrade Stalin."

Further, the party announced it had thrown out 169,000 party members in a continuing purge since Sept. 1. The fate of the purges was not disclosed.

But all this was only the latest of my purges, some of them—maybe most of them—ending in death for one-time loyal Communists accused of going their own way or plotting against the party.

In Italy a number of Communists have broken away from the control of Moscow and the party line laid down by the Russians, out since the Communists aren't in control there these men still walk the streets.

The point is: if you were a Communist living in a Communist country, how could you ever be sure you wouldn't get hit with a meat-ax tomorrow.

Camp Fire Girls To Note 41st Birthday Here

Observance Set For Next Week; Work Is Outlined

More than 360,000 Camp Fire Girls from every section of the country including almost 200 in Fayette County, are looking forward to next week, when they will observe the 41st anniversary of Camp Fire's founding.

Camp Fire Birthday Week, which begins Sunday, March 11, will end on Saturday, March 17, the organization's date of founding.

"Everybody Counts" is the theme of Birthday Week and the 1951 birthday project around which Camp Fire Girls will center many of their year's activities.

Mrs. Richard W. Blalock of Marshall, Tex., national president of the organization, said:

"Today when in so many parts of the world the individual is only a cog in his government and an unimportant cog at that -- it is vital that we in America stress the fact that everybody counts."

"Through our birthday project," Mrs. Blalock explained, "Camp Fire Girls will first discover the place of individuals within the community, and the richness of experience and pleasure that is singular to every age group."

Everybody Counts

"They will learn, too," the national president pointed out, "that everybody counts in service for freedom. Some of the year's activities will emphasize what they themselves -- from seven-year-old Blue Birds to seventeen-year-old Horizon Club girls -- can do to strengthen democracy."

Camp Fire Girls was founded in 1910 by Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick and a group of progressive educators. Jane Adams, founder of Hull House, was one of the incorporators.

The youth group is open to girls of all races and religions, between seven and eighteen years of age. Seven-to-ten-year-olds are called Blue Birds; intermediary members are Camp Fire Girls, while senior high school students are Horizon Clubbers.

Since its founding more than 2,600,000 girls, now grown to womanhood, have enjoyed Camp Fire's fun and friendship.

The auctioning off of the boxes to the highest bidder.

There will be music during the evening by the "Drifters" orchestra.

Mrs. Raymond Huff, Mrs. Don Coe and Mrs. Deane Draper are in charge of the chili supper.

Staff Orders 560 Copies of Sunburst

The staff for the Washington C. H. High School annual has ordered more than 560 copies of the "Sunburst." Plans are being made to distribute the yearbooks before the present semester ends.

One of the major jobs remaining in completing the yearbook is the writing of copy for the book which will have the theme "The House We Live In."

The members of the staff are now working on the opening section of the annual. Tom Bowles, art editor, designed the cover.

Weddle Resigns To Take New Position

M. E. Weddle, of near Bloomington, who for the past several years has been a draftsman and drainage surveyor in the Fayette County engineer's office, has notified county engineer C. P. Wagner he has accepted another job.

He will take a position soon in the Clark County engineering office under Robert Eastman in Springfield.

Weddle has served under four county engineers; Robert E. Willis, Edward N. Leonard, Charles A. Ferguson and Wagner.

Cat that Survived Roasting Year Ago, Living Normal Life

CANTON, March 6—(AP)—It's just a year since "miracle," a cat climbed out after spending 36 hours in a kiln which had held temperatures of up to 900 degrees. She's in fine shape now.

In fact, she's a lot better off now than then.

Dr. William Orr, a veterinarian, gave her intravenous shots and gradually she recovered from her scorching. Today she's a house cat, having graduated from being just a pet around the Metropolitan brick plant at nearby Minerva.

Experts on animals at first doubted the whole thing. When told the cat climbed out when a pottery kiln was broken open they said animals could not live through that heat.

Mrs. Twila Carman, a correspondent for the Canton Repository, showed that it was almost a sure thing that the cat had been in the kiln all the 36 hours it was sealed. Then, for a test, the writer put her fur hat, two thermometers and a steak in a kiln.

The hat and the steak came out of the test in the same shape as "Miracle"—scorched but not crisped.

Nobody knows how "Miracle" got in the kiln in the first place.

Problems Class To Visit Ohio Pen

They will be accompanied by Frank Krautwater, their instructor, and Stephen Brown, superintendent of city schools.

The students will leave for Columbus at 8:30 A. M. and will return at 6 P. M. They will go in private cars.

Their visit was arranged through Virgil Perrill, representative from Fayette County to the Ohio General Assembly. He will be their host for the day.

March 15 Deadline For Tax Returns

Residents of Fayette County got a reminder today from Edward J. McRoan, deputy collector of Internal Revenue, that they have only eight more days before the March 15 deadline to file their tax returns.

A heavy increase in filings is anticipated during the final week of the period. The increase was noted Monday when several people came into the office here.

McRoan is getting help in his office from Dan McCurran of the Cincinnati office. Both assist residents in making out their income tax returns.

Their office hours are from 8:30 A. M. until 5 P. M., Monday through Friday. The office is closed Saturdays.

Decrease in Crime Is Claimed by Czechs

PRAGUE —(AP)— Divorce and common crime are both decreasing in Czechoslovakia, says the minister of justice, Dr. Stefan Rais.

In a recent speech, he told a conference of people's—or non-professional judges—that between January and July last year, the number of common crimes had fallen 30 per cent in Bohemia and Moravia and 15 per cent in Slovakia. He said divorce figures had been dropping off ever since 1946. He gave no exact statistics for either crime or divorce. But he said the number of divorces was still too high.

Father Is Handy Developing Farm

DES MOINES — (AP) — When Hans Hansen, a native of Denmark, acquired a 70 - acre tract near West Branch, Iowa, 41 years ago, there wasn't a building on it—not even a fence post.

Today Hansen has 240 acres, 80 of which are tillable, and every building and fence on the place was erected by the former immigrant. These include a home, woodshed, garage and work shop, double corn crib, chicken house, two barns, hog house, tractor shed and fuel house, a saw mill shed and a machine shed. Around the farm are five miles of solid fence erected by Hansen. He even fitted five bedrooms in the home with furniture he made himself.

Lip-service for Economy, But No Courage

There is only one answer to this current discussion over need for government economy and that is someday to have a president and a leadership in Congress that will have the courage to refuse to make unnecessary appropriations.

The present talk about economy is reminiscent of Mark Twain's famous remark about the weather-everybody seems to talk about it but nobody does anything about it.

If this anomaly is a puzzle to you, it would be a good idea to read a recent article "Economy Inertia" by Alan Otten, appearing in a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal.

Mr. Otten cited the records of a number of typical Congressmen who have constantly demanded economy as a general principle-- have then gone all out for bigger and better appropriations for their own states and their own pet projects. Then he said, "so it goes down the line. Southerners favor big soil conservation and other farm appropriations. Men from the shipbuilding states want appropriations for maritime activities. Westerners want federal aid for their mines and new federal reclamation and power projects. Practically every congressman works on the assumption that the money is pouring out, and his district might as well get as much as it can."

Elsewhere in his revealing article, Mr. Otten said, "This fact emerges clearly as the federal budget keeps pushing higher: There will be no real economy, whatever the form of the bills before Congress, so long as the legislators themselves preach economy but refuse to practice it."

In other words, the legislative attitude, with a few rare and honorable exceptions, is "plenty of economy for the other fellow and the other district--but none for me and none for my district". To make matters worse, we seem to have a national administration which is determined to keep domestic spending at an ever-increasing level and to pile the defense spending on top of it. And so the dollar gets cheaper, the savings of the people are reduced to a fraction of former levels, and inflation runs like a race horse.

What is the cure? Primarily, it lies in a public understanding of how unbridled spending can destroy a free nation as surely as a war-coupled with the strongest kind of public demand for economy no matter whom it hurts. That means that every avoidable expense--whether it be for a great tax-exempt government power dam or some little pork barrel product--be ruthlessly cut from the new and future budgets.

Voice of the People

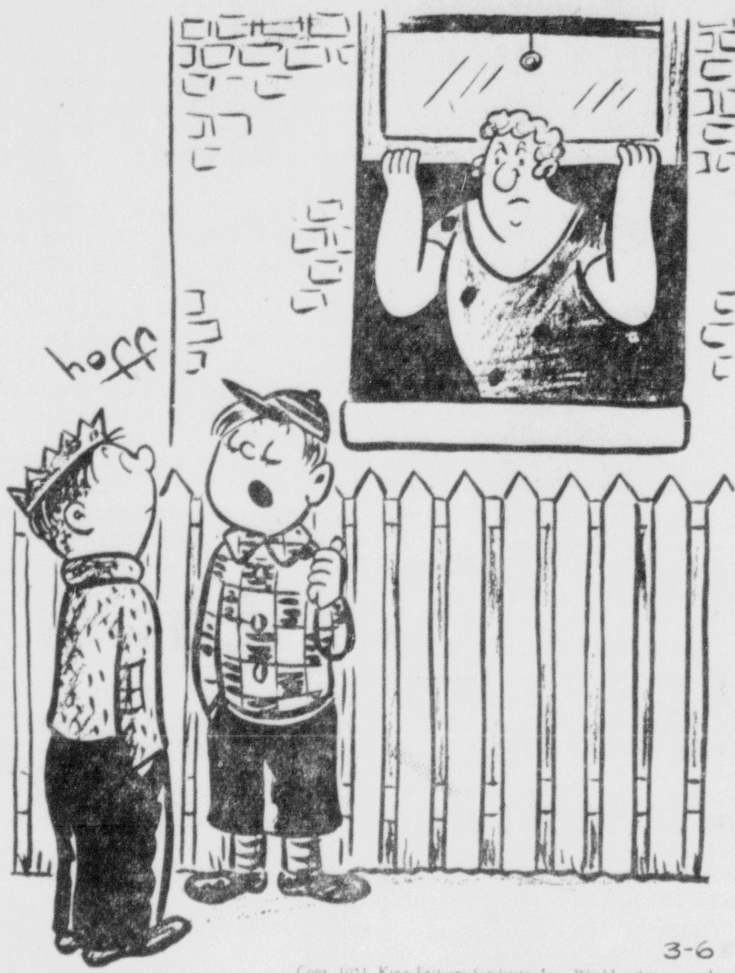

Bureaus in Washington readily admit that their mail regarding the price control program has been unfavorable.

Such unpopularity must be deserved. It is deserved because for years the heads of the government in Washington have been playing fast and loose with economic facts, and their sins are catching up to them. When all the economic wisdom of the ages is violated, there will inevitably be dissatisfaction.

For years the bureaucrats could pull rabbits out of hats and make them resemble rabbits because the country was strong enough to support economic shenanigans. What comes out of the hat now looks more like a skunk. Citizens are taking a whiff of the odoriferous scent and holding their noses.

No date has been set for man's first trip to lunar realms, but song writers will get a break if the pioneers land on the moon in June.

Diet and Health Difficult Disorder Has New Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Few disorders have proved more difficult to treat successfully than chronic inflammation of the prostate gland. Many measures including massage of the gland, application of heat, and the use of vaccines, have been devised for dealing with this painful condition which so often affects older men. None is completely satisfactory and, in many instances, the results are definitely poor.

Recently, however, a new method of treatment has been described which has brought excellent results in a large percentage of cases. This treatment consists of injecting penicillin directly into the gland. Prior to the injection, massage of the gland is carried out.

In the patients treated, five injections of penicillin were employed at five-to-seven-day intervals. Of thirty patients treated in this way, two-thirds remained well for more than the six months of observation.

When it is considered that these patients had had their difficulties for periods ranging from one to ten years, it can be seen that this treatment was especially helpful.

While the penicillin was being injected, a number of the patients had some pain. In most cases, this was slight, but in other cases it was severe. The pain disappeared rapidly by the time the treatment was completed.

After Treatment

In a number of instances, some blood was found in the urine for several days after each treatment. In those cases, the treatment was discontinued. It was also necessary to stop treatment in two cases because of a severe skin inflammation which developed from individual sensitivity to the penicillin. However, no complications, such as inflammation of the surrounding structures, was noted.

From the results reported, it would appear that the injection of penicillin directly into the prostate gland gives better results than any other method of treatment now in use. Furthermore, fewer treatments are needed to overcome the difficulty, and the method is comparatively free from complications.

St. Lawrence Seaway Urged by Industry

WASHINGTON, March 6--(AP)—The head of the company now developing huge iron ore deposits in Labrador today called early completion of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway "a vital necessity" in view of the need for steel in the defense program.

The witness, George M. Humphrey, president of the M. A. Hanna Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, testified before the House public works committee which is winding up the first phase of a hearing on legislation to authorize the project.

His testimony came after full endorsement of the seaway by the CIO.

Without the seaway, Humphrey told the committee, additional ore from Labrador, needed to meet this country's increasing steel demands, would have to move by ship through the Atlantic Ocean to eastern ports.

Dear Sir:

Do the farmers of the United States realize just what is going on now in our department of agriculture at Washington? Under the guise of complying with the Hoover Commission's report, which in name is laudable, certain services of the agriculture department have been consolidated under a new assistant secretary of agriculture of course appointed by Secretary Brannon. These agencies on the most part consist of various conservation agencies.

This new assistant secretary will be chairman of this national committee, then to the state level where the committee will be the heads of the U. S. D. A. agencies, with the state chairman of the Production Marketing Administration (formerly the dubious AAA), and he will be chairman of this new committee. Officials of other a persistent rumor that our local PMA, some time ago sent a letter to all of our township PMA committees telling them to work for the Brannon plan.

Do the farmers of the United States realize that we are entering the most rigid and far reaching and complete regimentation in our history, to date we have seen nothing. This above program was placed in effect Feb. 15, 1951 and about the only thing we locally can now do is to be sure to attend the township meetings where men to represent us on our local PMA committee are elected and be sure to vote for committee-men who will reflect what we the farmers want.

In my opinion the fact that the soil conservation districts and the extension agencies are now relegated to a minor position in agriculture, is tragic.

The heart of the discussion at the Kyoto conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations (1929) was Manchuria. Papers were read by Chinese, Japanese, American experts. Among the Japanese papers were those read by Masunobu Odagiri, director of the Yokohama Specie Bank and representative of the Japanese in the International Consortium, and Yosuke Matsuoka, who was at one time head of the south Manchuria railway and afterwards minister of foreign affairs.

The Japanese took the institute very seriously at this time, regarding it as a secondary platform for the discussion of mutual problems, in the anticipation that the Chinese and American governments would pick up issues raised at these meetings.

Salt Heats and Cools Homes In Experiment in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM — Dead sea salt is under trial here to cool houses in summer and warm them in winter.

The experiments are promoted by the Israel government and done by Dr. Rudolf Bloch of the Palestine Potash Company, concessionaire for Dead Sea minerals.

Exactly what Dead Sea salts are used in this experiment are kept secret by the promoter. One of his co-workers said: "The salt is a special mixture of our own discovery".

The salt is placed in containers (not otherwise described) inside the walls of a six-room dwelling in the Tel Aviv area. There this salt is said to freeze in the winter and melt in the summer. There is some water in the salt mixture.

The freezing in winter gives off heat, the usual latent heat that all substances give off when they freeze. The significant point about latent heat is that there is a lot of it. Why there should be enough latent heat in the salt mixture to heat a house during winter the promoters do not explain.

In summer the salt melts, and in so doing takes back the heat it let go in winter. Israel temperatures in this region run from over 100 Fahrenheit to a little under freezing.

The claim is made that the salt in the containers need never be renewed. For this reason the salt "conditioning" is said to be inexpensive. The salt can be placed inside walls of a six-room house here for $675.

Various poems and songs have the Pilgrims landing in America on a "stern and rock-bound coast," but sand is much more abundant where they landed than rock.

Home Gardens For Insurance

Shortages Unlikely But Future Cloudy

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
The U. S. Department of Agriculture, after surveying the food and seed supply situation, has approved a 1951 home garden campaign.

Secretary Brannan said these home gardens would "help improve the diets and health of our people."

Agriculture Department officials emphasize that no shortages of food are in sight today. But they say the future is so uncertain they believe it advisable to begin the development of a national home garden program, such as the victory garden campaign of World War II.

Many gardeners may find it will take a year or two to get their garden program started now, and thousands of home owners participate, agriculture officials say these thousands of gardens would be a major asset if a food crisis should develop.

Officials of the Agriculture Department's Extension Service were given the assignment of developing the program.

These officials canvassed the seed, insecticide and fertilizer situation and report sufficient supplies of each appear available for home gardens.

Insecticide Substitutes
Supplies of some insecticides and fungicides will depend upon availability of raw materials that may become scarce because they are needed in defense items. But the officials say that if one type of insecticide or fungicide disappears from garden stores, substitutes probably will be on hand.

As for fertilizers home gardens probably will not require more than two percent of total U. S. consumption, experts explain. And there seem to be adequate quantities for this.

The Department of Agriculture estimate of supplies of seeds this year as ample to take care of expanded gardening activities.

Officials say the present situation does not justify the tearing up of lawns or ornamental plots for vegetable growing. On the other hand, poor garden sites should not be used. There is too much danger of crop failure on such land, with a resulting waste of seed, fertilizer and labor.

Often the success or failure of a garden is determined before a spade of earth is turned -- when the gardener makes his choice of a site. Some ground won't grow a crop under any condition.

Pointers on Garden Site
The latest edition of the Department's garden manual, Growing Vegetables in Town and Country, makes these suggestions about selecting a site:

1. It should have at least six hours a day of direct sunlight with no obstructing trees or buildings.
2. It must be well drained. If it is wet for days after a storm, or if water washes over it during storms, it is not suitable.
3. The best gardening soil is a deep, dark sandy loam that can be spaded into a loose, crumbly condition. If possible avoid thin and stony and heavy, clay-like soils.
4. Usually land that is the most level is the best garden site. It will be less damaged by hard storms.
5. In most parts of the country the garden should be near the house, or a water supply, so that it may be irrigated if or when necessary. In wet areas this is not a problem.

The acid test for any prospective garden is this:
If weeds don't grow upon it, a garden probably won't either. So if you are choosing a vacant lot, or an untended plot, and it hasn't been seeded before, a rank growth of weeds is a good sign.

If a weed grows, eye it with suspicion.
But when Everson looked around he saw his dog, Elmer, grab the bird. Not only that, but Everson swears the dog swallowed it. Apparently Elmer has no taste for birds. Everson said Elmer coughed up the bird and disgustedly slunk to a corner.

Tom let the bird fly out the window.

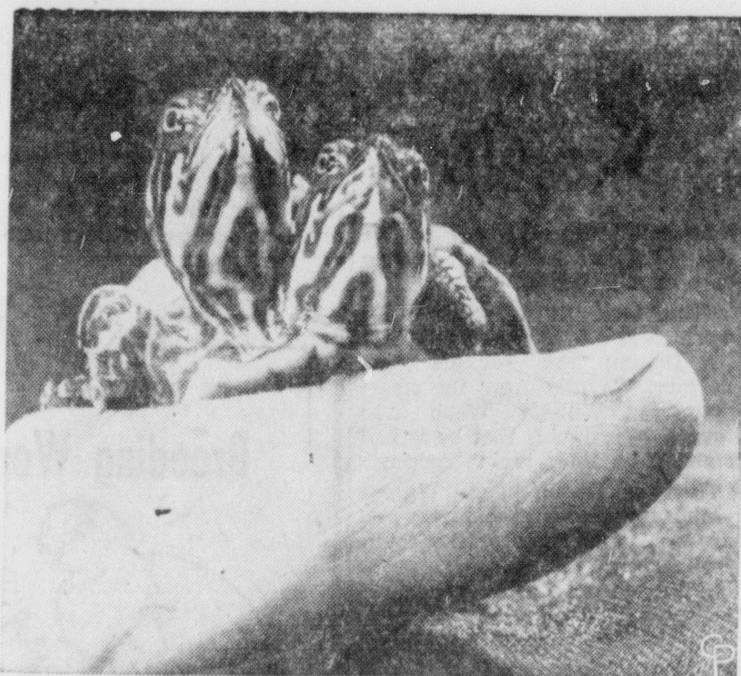

Rabbit Extermination Campaign in Australia

SIDNEY —(AP)— A disease, encouraged by man and spread by mosquitoes, is killing off thousands of unwanted rabbits in Australia. The rabbit-killing disease is myxomatosis.

Rabbits infected with the virus become blind and die of starvation. Australians are encouraging the disease because rabbits are a big pest here. They roam in millions over the sheep country, devouring enormous quantities of grass that could be used for sheep grazing.

Bankers Getting More Human; They're Even Making It Policy For Better Public Relations

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK, Mar. 6 — (AP) — The American Bankers Association today sights an "unmistakable trend." And you might like to check your own trend-sighting ability with the bankers, because they're talking about your relations with your bank, and you know how that can be at times.

The association's journal, "Banking," says that bankers are showing an "unmistakable trend toward friendliness, informality, human interest, and a generally relaxed approach to closer relations with the public."

What could be better than that --especially now that the monthly bills get bigger and bigger?

The financial journal stresses, of course, that all this is incompatible with sound banking principles--no one is playing fast and loose with anyone's money. But "Banking" with due banking caution, says that bank advertising "seems to be putting the emphasis less on an immediate dollars-and-cents return to the bank than on goodwill toward present and potential customers."

Good News to Folks

This is good news indeed to the present and potential customers, although it might have been a surprise to grandfather, who looked upon his bank as a citadel of dignity, a guardian of the financial morals of the community and a place to be approached with hat in hand, not to mention considerable fear and trembling. In fact, in those days you approached your banker in about the same spirit you said, "good morning judge."

You'll probably agree with the banking journal that especially since the war the banking fraternity has made strides in the four matters that "Banking" stresses: Friendliness, informality, human interest and relaxed approach. Let's check them one by one.

FRIENDLINESS. Certainly, and on both sides, too. Bank advertising nowadays urges you not to spend all of your dough on little things, but to start a savings account so that you will accumulate a large lump "to buy the things dearest to your heart." Other bank advertising tells you not to think of your bank as "only for millionaires"--not at all, some of them stand ready to help you pay your bills or purchase things on the cuff.

In return for this friendliness toward you, banks are asking some from you, too. If you put your money in a savings account you mustn't expect as much interest as grandfather did. If you put in a demand deposit for them to invest, you are likely to pay a service charge, either by the month or by the number of checks cashed, or both.

INFORMALITY. You no longer can tell a banker by his clothes--no spats, cane, striped pants, mutton crop whiskers, top hat. Now he looks like any other Rotarian. And the smile never leaves his face. Of course, if you're overdrawn, the smile may grow faint. And if you miss a payment on a loan, the smile may be hard to find.

HUMAN INTEREST. Here the banks have made some of their greatest strides. For example, the banks clustered around Rockefeller Center, in mid-Manhattan, speak proudly of the decor of their powder rooms. And they've made those other little rooms where safety deposit box customers clip their bonds mighty comfy.

RELAXED APPROACH. You've noticed how the old bank building of granite, barred windows and bleak exterior has given way to the new thing. The doorman practically pulls you inside to sell you the bank's services. But you may also notice that the vaults in the new banks are thicker than ever and the alarms more effective than ever--there are limits to the relaxed approach.

Cages Going Also

Gone, too, are the grilled money counters where the teller used to peer out at you through a lot like a blind-pig where you can hand your money across in as a relaxed fashion as if you were offering the teller a stick of gum.

But if you were ever more curious than you should have been, you'd have noticed that the designed of the bank's interior had beyond the reach of a customer placed the teller's money supply with even a 36-inch sleeve. That's all to the good, of course, as it might be your money the long-sleeved gent was reaching for.

In fact, the whole "unmistakable trend" is all to the good, and we're all for it.

And, now, a personal word, please. To the vice president in charge of "the chronically over-drawn accounts department" in the bank across the street from the Associated Press office: "We're just kidding, pal, just kidding."

Syria Army Program

DAMASCUS, Syria —(AP)—The Syrian army, according to newspaper reports, plans to provide military training for 18,000 school boys in government secondary schools. The plan may apply to 100,000 boys in all schools next year, it was reported.

Woman Beats Self Insane at Ceremony

DARWIN — (AP) — "Manbullo Maude," a 30-year-old aboriginal woman, clubbed herself insane during a primitive ceremony 300 miles south of Darwin recently.

She is now in Darwin Hospital, where she screams and shouts all day. At night she performs the ceremony, beating herself with her fists, until she is exhausted and collapses.

Maudie became insane during the funeral corroboree (native dance) after the death of her brother, who was thrown from a horse. She and other members of the family bashed themselves with spears, bludgeoned their heads with pieces of rock, and danced and wailed for hours before collapsing. Many of them had severely lacerated heads when the ceremony ended.

Harness Racing Facing Big Year

Amateur Driver Events Increase

By JIM CROSSETT
(Special To The Record-Herald)
CHICAGO, March 6.—Harness racing activities for the 1951 season will officially get under way when the 33 directors of the United States Trotting Association convene for their annual March meeting in Chicago March 11 and 12 at the Palmer House.

Racing rules for the coming campaign will be the first order of business followed by the hearing of appeals by the national governing board.

The sulky sport is expected to maintain an even keel this year with approximately the same number of parimutuel tracks in operation as in 1950 and with a slight increase in the number of fair meetings on the racing schedule. It is estimated that a total of slightly over 600 meetings will be sponsored from coast to coast.

The season will open at Yonkers Raceway in New York on April 16. Midwest campaigns will begin on April 23 at Aurora Downs.

SULKY FANS attending races at Sportsman's Park in Chicago this summer will be treated to something new in this section of the country. Amateur races will be held for the non-professional driver.

This means that several owners and just plain hobbyists will be given the opportunity to show their wares in front of the paying public.

Amateur races have grown to be feature events at some eastern ovals but this will be the first time the idea has been tried out in the Chicago territory.

THE BOARD of directors of the USTA will greet two new members to the executive panel when they convene in Chicago March 11 and 12.

Saunders Russell, well known sulky pilot from Stevenson, Ala., unseated Ben Mayo, Tarboro, N. C. in the election held for USTA district 7. Mayo had served as a director of the rule making body since the association was organized in 1939.

The other new member is William Maybury, prominent New England horseman from Dexter, Maine, who was elected to fill the office of Ralph Jewell who did not seek another term in district 10.

ALL TRACKS, parimutuel and otherwise, have made preliminary announcements that their advance or early entries are far in advance of expectations for the coming year.

This means standardbred horse racing fans will be treated to a gala year of the sport on the nation's harness racing tracks this coming season with the best stock available scrambling for honors on all tracks regardless of location.

AN EASTERN group of sportsmen, headed by Ray Hylan, wealthy president of the Hylan School of Aeronautics, Rochester, N. Y., has made preliminary plans to re-open the Phoenix, Ariz. harness track which operated in the winter of 1949.

It is reported that the new

Puddle Jumper Is at End of Racing Career

Racing days are over for Puddle Jumper, the 8-year-old thoroughbred gelding that Willard (Buck) Carlisle has raced under the colors of Buck & Red for the last two years.

The game dark bay little horse broke a bone in fore leg last Monday at Oak Lawn Park, at Hot Springs, Ark. It was in a six furlong race and the first of the season for the veteran campaigner.

Carlisle, reluctant to have Puddle Jumper destroyed, left word with track veterinarians to do everything possible to save him. He was still awaiting their final decision Tuesday morning, but admitted that first reports were discouraging. He said he had become reconciled to the inevitable fate of most horses with broken legs.

Puddle Jumper swept into the racing spotlight last year when he won the Governor's Handicap, the feature race of the Beulah Park meeting. Although he had a reputation as a "superior mudder," he won the governor's trophy over a fast track in the near record time of 1:44.3 for the mile and a sixteenth.

From Beulah Park, the son of Hastings-Sunip went on to win $6,100 last year.

Puddle Jumper, was cut out for a real good race horse. He was bred by the famous Calumet Farm in Kentucky. Most of his races were handicap and allowance events; when he ran in claiming races, he was entered with a big price tag.

A stout-hearted horse with plenty of stamina, he ran his best races at distances of one mile or longer.

Carlisle now has but two left in his stable and they are at Hot Springs. Both are four-year-old fillies—Dusty Babe and Mill Cat. After the Oak Lawn meeting closes, Carlisle plans to bring them to Beulah Park.

Whether he will add another horse to replace Puddle Jumper is still uncertain.

Hoosier Hot Shot Lacking in Height

CHICAGO —(P)—Little Sam Miranda, Indiana's brilliant junior guard, is one of the deadliest marksmen in Big Ten basketball circles this season. At the mid-season mark Sam was hitting his field goal shots a remarkable 43.8 average and also his free throws at an 87.5 clip.

Miranda, five-feet ten inches tall and weighing 160 pounds, comes from Collinsville, Ill. He is a phenomenal dribbler and a deadly two-hand set shot. For his first five Western Conference games, the little Hoosier averaged 11.2 points per game. He hit on 21 of 48 field goals.

Columbium, a scarce metal, is added to stainless steel to make it easier to weld.

organization has made application for dates during the winter months of 1952. Arizona law decrees that all track applications must be made one year in advance of any proposed meeting, therefore the seemingly early move.

FRED PIERSON TAKES HIS SPORTS seriously, whether football for which he is the WHS coach, or basketball, which he also coaches. If you doubt that, just take a look at this picture of him at the district cage tourney in Columbus Saturday night. Although his only connection with basketball is as coach and generalissimo of the Lion Cubs, grade school kid teams and intramurals, he was very perturbed over the way things were going for the Lions in this tourney game. They lost to Grandview and Coach Pierson was upset. The picture was snapped by the Record-Herald photographer and was just too good to keep in the files. So absorbed in the events of the moment was Pierson that he had no idea the picture was taken.

Kirk Training His Harness Horses At Circleville--Barns Here Full

McKinley Kirk today is getting his string of seven harness horses ready at the Fairground in Circleville because there are no more stables available at the Fairground track here.

This is the first time since Kirk got into the harness horse racing sport in a big way that he has not headquartered here.

He admitted that training his horses at Circleville was inconvenient—to put it mildly—but he added philosophically "there was nothing else to do."

The big white barn at the Fairground here that Kirk has used in previous years is now filled with horses Eddie Cobb, his son-in-law, has in training. Every one of its 39 stalls has an equine occupant now. Cobb even has to store his feed in another barn.

A CRIMP WAS put in the stabling facilities at the Fairground when one of the older 20-stall barns burned several months ago. But this barn was occupied at the of Charles Gallagher, Harry Orihood and Robert Dalton, all of whom were with them last season.

Kirk took his horses to his farm near New Holland at the end of the racing season last fall. When he got ready to start their training routine, the stalls here were all full.

The first Christian Science church was built in 1895 to seat 1,000 people, but an extension built in 1905 enlarged seating capacity to 5,000.

All-Star Cage Teams Of SCO To Be Picked At Circleville Meet

An All-SCO League basketball team for the 1950-1951 season is to be selected March 14 when the league's annual spring meeting of the five member schools is held at Circleville.

The championship also is to be awarded officially then to the Grenfield Tigers in the varsity division and to the WHS Lions in the reserve division.

These are the highlights of the meeting's agenda just received by Principal Arthur Wohlers of WHS, but they are by no means all of the topics that will come up for discussion.

Prin. Wohlers said that "undoubtedly the question of admission fees for both football and basketball games will be taken up."

New Buck Coach Wants Criticism

Spare the Players, He Tells Newsmen

COLUMBUS, March 6—(P)—Ohio State University's new head football coach wants any criticism of poor Buckeye playing directed at him—and not at the players.

Wayne (Woody) Hayes, successor to Wesley Fesler, made this point at a press conference yesterday as he unveiled plans for spring practice.

Don't criticize any players for mechanical or other errors on the field, he told newsmen, adding:

"It we boot a game, and you must criticize someone, just take it out on me. After all, the players are just kids, and a coach is a little thicker-skinned and can take it. And a coach gets paid for taking it, too."

Hayes has a full schedule planned for spring practice, which begins March 28.

He promised that everyone who turns out will have "every chance" to make the varsity.

Hayes plans individual coaches for each position in the offensive line and two for the defensive unit. He still has to name one more assistant coach.

The first few sessions will be indoors. The six-week outdoor practice period begins about April 2. It will end with the annual "Clinic" contest May 12.

Hamilton's Big Blue Wins Another Game

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, March 6—(P)—Hamilton's Big Blue and Barberton's Magics, a pair of once-beaten teams, were a step nearer the Ohio High School Class A championship today.

Hamilton, favorite of the state's sports writers for the crown it won in 1937 and 1949, was an impressive 79-31 winner last night over Hamilton Catholic in the Cincinnati district meet. It was the 21st win in 22 starts for the Big Blue.

Barberton boosted its record to 18-1 with a 40-34 win over Springfield Township at Kent, as two former state champs were sent sprawling from the same tournament. Akron North, the 1935 and 1939 king, was eliminated by Akron St. Vincent in a 60-59 thriller, while Akron West, champ in 1932, was ousted 50-34 by Coventry.

IN CLASS B, Corning rolled to its 24th win in 25 games with a 72-51 victory over Racine at Athens, setting the stage for a scrap with Gibsonville (21-2) Wednesday night.

Ottoville and Aversville, the teams which ousted defending state champion Miller City from the Class B ranks, clashed at Defiance and Ottoville won 36-31 to boost its record to 17-6. However, Deshler with a 24-0 mark, is favored in that tourney.

In the windup of sectional play, Dresden and Senecaeville won Marietta district berths at Zanesville. Dresden ousted Zanesville Rosecrans 65-56, but Senecaeville needed an overtime to eliminate Byessville 78-73.

Class A games are scheduled tonight at Steubenville, Berea, Euclid, Youngstown and Athens, with Class B seeing action at Westerville, Kent, Defiance and Cincinnati.

The Class A field was down to 66 teams, and Class B to 88 to day, both will be trimmed to 16 by Saturday night.

Outstanding games tonight send unbeaten Cleveland St. Ignatius (15-0) against Rocky River at Berea in Class A, Waynesburg (21-0) against Geneva (13-5) at Kent, and Deshler (24-0) against Latty (16-7) at Defiance, in Class B.

Columbia to Yale

NEW HAVEN—(P)—Yale's assistant track coach, Frank Ryan, attended Columbia where he captained the freshman and varsity track teams. He competed in the field events. Three times he won the 104A and National AAU shot put championship and held the records for these indoors. In August of 1938 he defeated the Olympic champion, Hans Woelke in Berlin.

An organized abolitionist movement in the United States got under way in 1831, when William Lloyd Garrison established the "Liberator" in Boston to advocate emancipation of slaves.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6—(P)—Former featherweight champion Willie Pep heads back to Florida today after another victory and hopes for winning back the title he has held twice.

Pep said after his easy 10-round decision over Carlos Chavez here last night that he may be ready in June for a shot at the title now held by Sandy Saddler.

Parseghian Is Miami Coach; Takes Place of Woody Hayes

OXFORD, March 6—(P)—A young, black-haired powerhouse has stepped from Miami's ranks right into the head football coach's job—one of Ohio's top grid spots.

And there isn't a soul at Miami who thinks 27-year-old Ara Raoul Parseghian will do anything but a bang-up job.

Parseghian, anything but a shrinking violet when he's got a football in his hand, confessed himself as feeling "humble and confident at the same time" when told of his appointment yesterday.

"I realize this is an exceptional opportunity for a man my age, and I certainly hope I can justify the confidence this appointment

Charles-Walcott Fights Gets Crowd Despite Television

DETROIT, March 6—(P)—The critics who say television is wrecking boxing attendance may get a jolt when heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and challenger Jersey Joe Walcott start swapping punches tomorrow night.

Maybe television has hurt the turnout at other fights—but TV is causing no headaches for this 15-round battle for the world's championship.

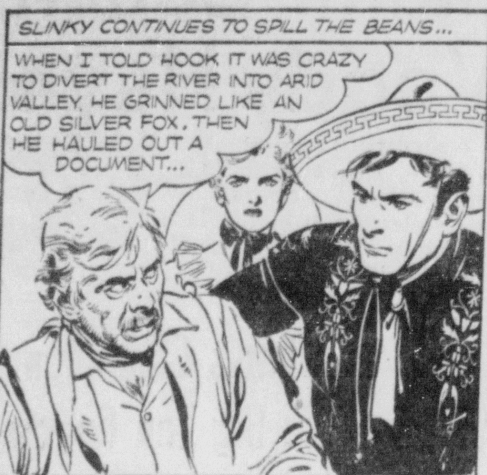

A brisk advance sale that has passed the $50,000 mark was reported today by Lew Cromwell, box office boss at Olympia Stadium. And this for a fight that's being both telecast and broadcast.

Charles, a younger, speedier, and lighter boxer than the veteran Walcott, remained a 3-to-1 favorite in the betting odds.

A blue-eyed brunette from Newark, Ohio, is credited with starting a trend in women's TV programs that has swept the country. Kathi Norris, with her producer-husband, Wilbur Stark, dreamed up the idea of having a woman shopping and presenting them on television to women viewers back in November 1948. Since then, "The Kathi Norris Show" on NBC-TV in New York has been going strong, and similar TV productions have cropped up all over the nation.

Miss Norris has gained a far-reaching reputation by means of her shopping guide program, "National Magazines," have featured stories about her and her program, and she has appeared on network programs like "Leave It To The Girls" and "Who Said That?" The diminutive (five feet-four) Kathi was named recently by the Charm Institute of America as the "most charming woman in television," but she is rather matter-of-fact about the honor.

"The Charm Institute may not like me for this," but I don't believe in charm," she states. "The word is too often used as a synonym for coyness."

Kathi adds that the institute means "natural" when it says "charm," then she's delighted. She says she is no actress, simply tries to be herself.

Some wives enter business because their husbands are out of work, or the vivacious Kathi went into television because her husband had a job.

It happened this way: back in 1947, her husband, who was working with a New York City radio station, decided to produce teenage television program in Schenectady.

He couldn't get away from New York so he hired a substitute to take over the television project for him in Schenectady. The substitute got nowhere when he tried to create a little order among the youngsters and Kathi, who had never been before either a microphone or a TV camera, was drafted at the last minute to do something with the kids. Kathi has been in television ever since.

The Stacks live with their five-year-old daughter, Pamela, in New York. One of their favorite games is bridge, which Kathi plays like an expert. For real relaxation, though, she says there's nothing like cleaning out a

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

QUINT'S worry that Jennet would reproach him for writing to her father of her whereabouts had been a waste of feeling; not once since she had appeared in the door of the parlor had her glance come to him. All that rebellious talk of hers had been just talk. Anger stirred in him over a deep disappointment in the girl.

The talk had turned to Newark. "It's a little gem of a place," declared Richard. "The elite of Canada live there. The big houses, broad avenues—a nice afternoon and the ladies promenade along the avenues. I'm told there is as much fashion there as in New York City. They have musicals and teas—scarcely a day when there isn't a soiree of some sort. You will like it, Sis." Richard turned his smile on Rhoda. "And you, too, Aunt."

"Are there shops and dressmakers?" pressed Jennet.

"The ladies shop in York where may be bought the best that England has to send over. Neither you will lack for fol-de-rols. Will they, Ken?"

Sir Kenneth affirmed it. Quint saw the glitter in Rhoda's eyes that had been in them when she handled the silk Jennet gave her. He heard Jennet saying, "Newark must be a perfectly delightful place in which to live!"

The meal over, they returned to the parlor. At the door Quint started to excuse himself but Rhoda commanded him by a look to stay.

"A little music, Jen, to finish this pleasant evening?" suggested Richard.

"A song, perhaps?" Sir Kenneth took Jennet's hand and led her to the piano.

She sat down on the stool, arranged her skirts, flashed a quick upward glance at the young man beside her, then put her hands on the keys.

"Drink to me only with thine eyes, And I will pledge with mine..."

When she finished and turned on the stool, Sir Kenneth caught her hands, bent over them.

"I would not change for thine," he repeated. Jennet drew her hands from his hold, got to her feet. "Thank you, Sir Kenneth." She stammered it, as if she did not have her breath under control. She said, without looking at anyone, "If I may be excused—I've much to do..."

Richard sprang up, patted her shoulder. "That's right—you get yourself ready like a good girl. Eleven o'clock—not a moment more to fix up so much as a curl! It's important, I can tell you." He was pink with satisfaction in her apparent submissiveness. "Now, Uncle, with your permission, and if Aunt will excuse us, Ken and I will go into your big room. We've a little toast to drink, eh, Ken? To those eyes. Perhaps you will join us!"

"Toby will take care of you. He'll show you your room. I'll bid you goodnight."

Quint knew what the toast meant by the snig look on Richard's face. He'd seen the same look on Alec's, on his father's, when the underwriting of a highly profitable venture had been put through. But this was Jennet, being caught and sold! Every instinct in Quint was revolted. He turned to Rhoda, thinking she must feel as he did about it, needing her to feel so.

Rhoda's face had its odd, smiling smile. She began to snuff out the candles, as if she were alone in the room. Quint turned and went: out of the room, out of the house.

A little before eleven Richard and Sir Kenneth came down to the parlor. Richard rejected Quint's suggestion of food with an expression of deep pain. "A quick brandy is all my stomach asks. Jen—is she ready?"

"She is in her room making ready."

"And the ferry? A good start is to our advantage."

"The ferry will be ready," Richard shouted across the room to his man to get the horses around. He drew out his wallet.

"Our bill, now, Uncle, for our lodging—for Jen's, too."

Quint's hand clenched. But he kept his voice even.

"I charge nothing to entertain my kin."

Richard laughed. "That's so! I remember we crossed your ferry free of charge. Well, if you like it that way—I suggest, Ken, we make our adieu to the Aunt. Then we'll be off."

Rhoda met them in the parlor. Richard repeated that it would be his father's and his pleasure to have her visit them in Newark, very soon; and Sir Kenneth added the proper speeches of appreciation of her hospitality, but both plainly were impatient to get it all said and be off.

"If you'll be so kind as to summon that sister of mine, Aunt, I'll take a little time for George to stow our luggage."

Rhoda went in search of Jennet. She was gone several minutes and Richard began to grumble.

Sainthood Possibility For Late Pope Pius X
VATICAN CITY, March 6.—(AP)—Thousands of Catholic faithful are expected to fill St. Peter's on June 3 for the beatification of Pope Pius X—a step that usually leads toward elevation to sainthood.

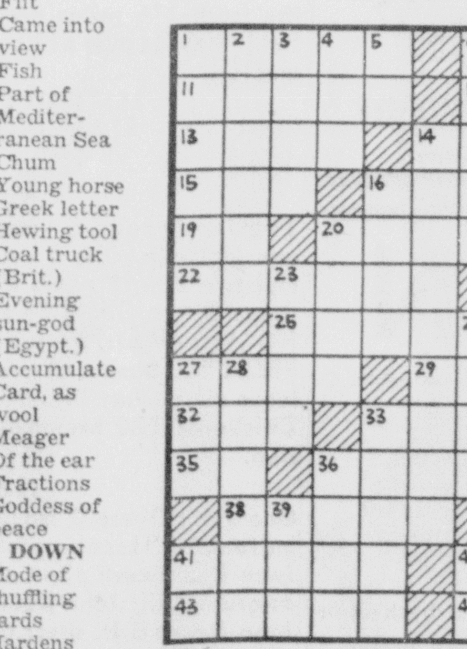

The son of a postman, Pius X reigned as pontiff from 1903 until 1914, when he died at the age of 79. He will be the first pope raised to the blessed in 279 years. Pius V was beatified in 1672 and was made a saint in 1712.

Just goes to show you how easy it is to double your money if you spend it in the right place.

investigation. He wanted to limit the inquiry, leaving investigation of suspected Communist individuals to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the military authorities.

McElroy told the Senate he fears the investigation will be a witch hunt. But Sen. Leo Blackburn (R, Scioto) assured him and other senators the inquiry will be conducted on a "businesslike, dignified basis."

The Senate defeated McElroy's limiting amendment on a voice vote. The Senate approved the investigation 29-0. Three members were absent, and McElroy had left the floor before the final vote was taken.

The investigation resolution originated in the House and was approved 118-0 there.

The 10-member Senate-House committee, when it is organized, will look into Communist and other subversive activities in the state.

Budget Assailed
Hardly had the echoes of the debate died away before Sen. Albert Daniels (R-Highland) began a lengthy attack on the budget message delivered last Thursday by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The governor, Daniels concluded after reciting a number of figures on tax collections in the last 18 months, has underestimated Ohio's revenues for the next two years by at least $38,000,000.

Sen. Anthony J. Celebrezze (D-Cuyahoga) came to the governor's defense with the observation that his estimate of state revenues is as good as Daniels' Senate minority Leader Joseph Sartunek (D-Cuyahoga) supported Celebrezze.

McElroy introduced in the Senate a bill to set up a retirement system for judges. It would limit the amount of pension to half a judge's salary for the last six years of his service. And it would require the legislature to make up the difference between the money in the retirement fund available for pensions and the amount needed to meet annual pension payments. Judges would contribute four percent of their salaries.

Similar measures have failed to receive approval of previous legislatures.

Sen. David M. Ferguson (R-Guernsey) offered a bill appropriating $300,000 for a research laboratory and $150,000 for cancer research at the new Ohio State University medical center.

School Information
Sen. Oakley Collins (R-Lawrence) proposed the legislature create an agency to be known as the Ohio School Board's Association. It would disseminate information to school board
